

Funding Sources

Asian Pacific Journal of Nursing and Health Sciences accepts revenues from various sources to ensure the quality of the peer-review process and published articles. The sources of income include APC, online subscription, Pharma support, events (seminar, conferences, training), and support from Academy of Health Professionals. None of the editorial decision is influenced by the revenue itself.